

CAAGS WRITERS GROUP

WHO

The California African American Genealogical Society, Inc. (CAAGS) was established in 1986 with a focus on fostering genealogical research and documentation that leads to publication. We welcome anyone interested in beginning or advancing their research, and in publishing it in any form.

WHAT

The Writers Group is being established to inspire and motivate anyone who needs support or assistance with converting research into publications of any sort – detailed family histories/records, compiled genealogy records, biographies, stories, historical fiction, articles for newspapers and magazines, etc. Sessions will be designed to achieve results - a published document of some sort.

WHY

You may be passionate about your family history/genealogy research. But what about your after-life? What will happen to your work when you are no longer here? Why not preserve your research, conclusions, thoughts and memories in a written format that can be found on shelves in libraries, archives, in the homes of family members, or in your blog, or in the cloud?

WHEN

10:00 – 12 noon the fourth Friday of each month, beginning September 26, 2014

WHERE

Mayme Clayton Library & Museum
4130 Overland Ave.
Culver City, CA 90230
Information: info@caags.org
www.caasg.org
(323) 806-5634

Join Us

“Inspiring family history research, one person at a time”